

My story about Internet

Is the internet a miracle or a device so that children have headaches from it?

They have not yet seen the world with their eyes, and everyone would like to hang out on the internet. I understand the progress of the world, but I also see how much it bothers the children: they forget sisters, brothers, fatherhood and they just don't have their childhood.

Children on the Internet are not safe, however you look at it and in any sense. Facebook always makes a problem, whenever someone sets a new status.

YouTube ranks 2nd, you see children on it often.

Ugly videos are watched a lot, although it is strictly forbidden to them. Children listen to various songs, because their friends tell them empty stories.

Twitter - the third in a row, on it the children "hang" instead of, to hold a doll or honey.

Children's appointments are scheduled with everyone, even though they know nothing about them. Children constantly neglect learning, they say they have a great time on the internet.
